6 Robert O'Neal
You won't believe the position Robert O'Neal played during his Pee Wee days. Clemson's All-ACC free safety first burst on the seen when he was so much faster than the opposition that he ran out of his shoes. Now in his final home game, O'Neal could reach a plateau no other Tiger has ever reached.

49 Norris Brown
Clemson's most versatile defensive back has a busy schedule. The only married player on the Tiger team has to juggle his academics and athletic schedule with his wife's equally active slate. But, he wouldn't have it any other way.

51 Eric Geter
This two-year starter in the secondary has teamed with Robert O'Neal for four seasons on and off the field. This native of Georgia is one of the reasons Clemson ranks in the top 25 in the nation in many defensive categories.

53 Kim Graham
Few current Clemson athletes have been as decorated as women's track star Kim Graham. The All-American has been the MVP of the ACC twice in her first three years at the outdoor meet. She could become the league's first three-time selection.

73 Great Tiger Wins in Death Valley
In the spring of 1962 Rodney Rogers was a little used reserve defensive back. Seven months later he became the first player in Clemson history to provide the winning points inside the last two minutes on consecutive Saturdays. His field goal to beat South Carolina and quarterback Dan Reeves was memorable.

107 Tiger Tennis
Both Clemson tennis teams have been ranked among the top programs in the nation over the last decade. That tradition should continue in 1993.

109 Butch Fewster
Butch Fewster is a walk-on who earned a football scholarship with hard work and dedication. This work ethic was instilled in him by his late father.

111 Jimmy Key
Clemson is the only school in the nation with an alum that serves as a starter on the reigning NBA Champion, Super Bowl Champion and World Series Champion. Jimmy Key completed the trifecta earlier this fall by gaining half of Toronto's victories in the 1992 World Series.

Today's Game

By Tim Bourret

Final Game for Tiger Seniors

The South Carolina game will mark the final appearance in a Clemson uniform for the 26 Tiger seniors. Over the last four years they have made a significant impact on the success and tradition of Clemson football. Here are a few items:

*Has a 34-11-1 record for the four years, a .750 winning percentage, the best among ACC schools who have been in the league for four seasons.

*Put together the longest streak of consecutive weeks ranked in the AP top 25 in Clemson history. The group was ranked for 50 straight weeks in AP and 51 straight weeks by the Coaches' poll.

*Played in three bowl games, winning a pair. The current seniors played in the 1989 Gator Bowl victory against West Virginia (27-7) and the 1991 Hall of Fame Bowl victory over Illinois (30-0).

*Had three top 20 seasons, including a number-nine final ranking in 1990. The group was ranked as high as sixth in the nation on October 1, 1991.

*Has posted a 21-2-1 record in Death Valley.

*Won the 1991 ACC championship with a 6-0-1 record, Clemson's first perfect record in the ACC since 1982.

*Gained eight wins over AP top 20 teams over the last four years. This includes a victory at Florida State in 1989, a pair of wins over 12th-ranked N.C. State teams in Death Valley, and the victory at #10 Virginia this year.

*The 29-28 victory over Virginia this year was the greatest comeback in Clemson history as the Tigers were 28 points down, then won in the last minute of the game. It was also the first win over a Top 10 team on the opponent's home field in Clemson history.

*Posted the largest margin of victory over a Top 20 team in Clemson history in the 40-7 win over 18th-ranked North Carolina on November 7 of this year.

*Holds a 3-0 record against South Carolina and hopes to join the class of 1991 with a perfect record against the Gamecocks.

The roster of seniors includes 14 players who are from the state of South Carolina:

Tripp Boltin, WR, Orangeburg, SC

Tiger Defense Looks for Sack Record

Clemson recorded five sacks at Maryland and now has 43 for the season, the highest figure in the ACC. This Clemson defense needs just two sacks against South Carolina to break the school single season record of 44 sacks set by the National Championship team of 1981. This year's team already has the sack record on a per game basis with 43 sacks in 10 games. Even if the Tigers do not record another sack they will have an average of 3.91 per game, better than the 3.72 per game turned in by the 1984 club that was led by William Perry.

This year's club has had at least two sacks in every game so they certainly have a shot at the record on Saturday. It includes 10 sacks against Duke for 56 negative yards. That tied the Clemson single game sack record. The Tigers also had seven sacks against North Carolina.

Ashley Sheppard leads the way individually with 8.5, while Brentson Buckner is next with 7.5. Sixteen different players have been involved in a sack this year.

Sheppard Close to Sack Record

Ashley Sheppard has made a late-season charge towards the Clemson individual single season sack record. The senior from Greenville, NC has 8.5 sacks for the 1992 season, just 1.5 off the single season record of 10 set by three former Tigers.

Sheppard could put himself in impressive company if he can record a sack and a half against South Carolina. The co-holders of the Clemson single season sack mark are William Perry (1984), Jim Stuckey (1979) and Michael Dean Perry (1987). All three of those players went on to become Super Bowl Champions or All-Pro selections.

O'Neal Closes Out Career

Free safety Robert O'Neal closes out his all-star career as a Clemson Tiger on Saturday. The senior from Clarkston, GA has become one of the top defensive players in Clemson history. That statement should be further justified next week when the All-ACC team is announced. O'Neal should become the first Clemson player in history to be named to the first or second-team All-ACC squad four times. He was a first-team selection in 1989, second-team choice in 1990 and first-team choice in 1991.

O'Neal enters his last game ranked second in Clemson history in passes broken up with 36, he is third in tackles among defensive backs and needs just two more to move ahead of Gene Beasley into second place behind Terry Kinard. O'Neal has 240 tackles entering the South Carolina game.

O'Neal is also tied for third in total career interceptions. He will be making his 39th straight start in a Clemson uniform and his 40th overall. He will end his career second in Clemson history in total starts among defensive backs (James Lott had 42 between 1986-89). He is also 12th in Clemson history in career punt return yardage, even though he did not return any punts as a freshman.

Les Hall and Stacy Seegars have been the mainstays of Clemson's sixth-ranked rushing attack.

Sheppard leads a defense that could set a Clemson sack record today.

Tigers from South Carolina

There are 32 players on the active Clemson roster who list South Carolina as their home state. There are more players from South Carolina than any other state on the Clemson roster. The list of 32 players includes eight starters.

The defensive starters from South Carolina include Norris Brown (Sr, CB, Conway), Tim Jones (So., ILB, Rock Hill), and Wayne Simmons (Sr., OLB, Hilton Head)). The offensive starters from South Carolina include Les Hall (Sr., OT, Columbia), Terry Smith (Jr., WR, Clemson), Larry Ryans (Sr., WR, Greenwood) and Stacy Seegars (Jr., OG, Kershaw). Sophomore Punter and Placekicker Nelson Welch lists Greer, SC as his hometown.

Clemson Offense 9th Best All-time

Due to injury, Clemson's offense has used three different starting quarterbacks for the first time since 1975. Despite the changes at this key position, Clemson is averaging 379.7 yards per game in total offense. That would be the ninth best total offense average in Clemson history if the season ended after 10 games. Last year's team averaged 403 yds per game in total offense, the second highest average in Clemson history.

It is interesting to note that in each of the seasons ranked ahead of this year in terms of total offense per game, the same quarterback started every game.

In terms of rushing offense, this Clemson team has averaged 259.7 yards per game. That leads the ACC, ranks sixth in the nation and would be the fifth highest single season figure in Clemson history if the season ended after 10 games.

Clemson-South Carolina Series

Clemson holds a commanding 53-32-4 advantage in the series with South Carolina. The rivalry dates back to a 12-6 Gamecock win in Columbia in 1896. Clemson has a 7-2-1 record against South Carolina over the last 10 years and has won each of the last four games by an average of 22.5 points. South Carolina last defeated Clemson in 1987 at Columbia, by a 20-7 margin.

Clemson has a 5-5 overall record heading into the South Carolina contest. Since 1962 when the game was moved to the last game of the season, the Tigers have needed a victory over the Gamecocks to clinch a winning season nine times. The Tigers have a 6-3 record in those games, including each of the last two.

In 1980 a 5-5 Clemson team coming off a 34-7 loss at Maryland needed a victory over a #14 ranked South Carolina team to clinch a winning season. The Tigers responded with a 27-6 victory. In 1985 both teams entered the game in Columbia with a 5-5 record. The Tigers, coming off an 18-point loss to Maryland, defeated South Carolina 24-17 and clinched an Independence Bowl berth.

Ken Hatfield has a 2-0 record against South Carolina and is trying to become just the third coach in Clemson history to win his first three games against the Gamecocks. Josh Cody, who had a perfect 4-0 record against South Carolina in his career, did it between 1927-29, and E. A. Donahue accomplished the feat between 1917-19. Donahue lost the 1920 game, 3-0.

Welch Ties his Own Record

Nelson Welch is not yet finished with his sophomore year, but he already ranks among the best placekickers in Clemson history. The native of Greer made five field goals in six attempts at Maryland, tying his own Clemson single game record for field goals made. He connected on attempts of 30, 53, 43, 32 and 32 yards. His 44-yard attempt at breaking the Clemson record and tying the ACC record was just a bit wide.

Welch has now made 20-26 field goals this year and ranks fourth among the top placekickers in the nation. He is an impressive 8-10 on field goal attempts of 40 yards or more. The Tiger punter and placekicker is now 39-54 for his career on field goal attempts, including 10 of his last 11. He had a streak of 10 straight snapped at Maryland.

Welch is Clemson's leading scorer this season with an ACC best 82 points, just six points away from his total as a freshman when he paced the club in scoring. Welch is now fourth in Clemson history in total field goals made (39), seventh in scoring (170 points) and fifth in kick scoring. And, we repeat, he is not finished with his sophomore season yet.

Air Bo Turf

Robert O'Neal

by Annabelle Vaughan

Picture this. It is a brisk autumn Saturday in Death Valley. The fans are making their way to their seats and the band is marching into the stadium to the strains of Tiger Rag. The public address announcer begins listing the starting lineups for today's game. "And on the offensive line, at tackle, a 6-7, 313-pound senior, Les Hall...at the other tackle, a 6-3, 306-pound junior, Brent LeJeune...at guard, 6-5, 294 pounds, senior Jeff Fortner...the other guard, 6-4, 320-pound junior, Stacy Seegars...and finally a 6-2, 197-pound senior...Robert O'Neal???"

Not quite. Although O'Neal stands tall in the Tiger secondary, he would definitely be dwarfed by the Tigers' mammoth offensive line. But oddly enough, the offensive line is where O'Neal began his illustrious football career, although not by his own choice. "I was a skinny little kid," O'Neal remembers with a smile. "I was always the youngest kid on my block, but I had just as much talent as the older kids. I was always fast, and I had good moves as a youngster. People would always pick me to be on their team because I could make something happen."

At the age of eight or nine, O'Neal began to beg his parents to sign him up for an organized team. "I kept telling them that I was really good, but they always had some excuse," he recalls. "They probably didn't believe me. I used to come home and say, 'Dad, you missed it. I made this awesome one-handed catch!' I'm sure he thought I was exaggerating. I was just a skinny little kid.

"Finally, one day I was in the yard playing with some of my friends and my parents were up on the porch watching. I told my friend who was playing quarterback to throw deep, so he dropped back and I ran as fast I could. He threw it up and I remember I made a sensational catch. I looked up and my parents were sitting up there clapping for me. I think they were pretty impressed because that was the year they finally allowed me to join a team."

O'Neal thought his day in the sun had finally arrived. He knew that his dreams of being the star of Clarkston, Georgia were about to come true. He arrived at his first practice, eager to begin his ascent to greatness, only to find that his coach had decided to play O'Neal at offensive guard. "I couldn't believe it!" remembers O'Neal. "I was crushed. I knew I couldn't be Walter Payton if I was an offensive guard. The receivers couldn't catch, the running backs couldn't run, and I was playing offensive guard. I would go to practice, but I wasn't very motivated because everything I had dreamed about had ended."

Having all of your dreams crushed before your 12th birthday can be a real downer, according to O'Neal. And maybe O'Neal would have stuck with it and gone down in history as the skinniest offensive lineman ever, if it hadn't been for the intervention of his mother, Linda. "After a couple of weeks of me moping around, my Mom decided to come down to the park and have a little talk with the coach. She really let him have it. She told him that I was the best player out there and he was wasting me. I was a little embarrassed, but I was even more proud that my Mom thought enough of my ability to go out there and fight for me. A couple of weeks after that talk, they moved me to tight end, so I got to catch the ball some. That was a little better, but it still wasn't what I wanted."

Finally, about halfway through the season, O'Neal was moved to runningback on his winless team. And the first game that he started, he proved his mother right. "One of the first times I touched the ball in that game, I carried it about 60 yards," says O'Neal with a smile. "Once I got past the 50 yardline, the sole of my shoe ripped completely off so I was limping down the field trying to make it to the endzone. I got caught from behind, but the coach was so happy because that was the biggest play our team had made all year. He found some other kid on the team who wore the same size shoe I did and gave me his shoe and put me back in the game. They taped my shoe up and made that poor kid wear it.

"But the main thing I remember is that after I made the play, I looked up in the stands for my Dad and I didn't see him. I remember thinking, 'I can't believe my Dad didn't see me make the greatest play of my life.' I was pretty disappointed. But then just a few minutes later, my Dad came running onto the field with a box of new shoes! As soon as the play was over, he had left the field and gone to the shoe store. I ended up scoring the winning touchdown in that game and we won, 13-6."

O'Neal could become the first four-time first or second-team All-ACC selection in Clemson history.

O'Neal credits his father, Robert, Sr., not only with keeping him well-shod, but with helping keep his feet on the ground. "Going into my senior season in high school, I had been getting a lot of letters from colleges and stuff and I thought I was pretty hot. So for the first game of the season, I tucked in my sleeves and put all these towels on and tied my jersey in a knot in the back. I ended up catching real bad cramps in that game and didn't play much.

"My Dad pulled me aside

after that game and told me that I had the big head and I had better calm down if I ever expected to make it. I thought he was being a little old-fashioned, but I have a lot of respect for my father, so I listened to him. The next game, I was named the Player-of-the-State. Since that point, everything my father has told me, whether I agreed or disagreed, I have always listened to and respected."

The advice of the senior Robert O'Neal also helped the younger version handle the pressure of very early success on the college level. As a freshman at Clemson, O'Neal was named the ACC Newcomer-of-the-Year and the nation's top first-year defensive back by The Sporting News. He was a first-team all-conference choice as he led the ACC in interceptions with eight and ranked second nationally among freshmen. Only one freshman nationally had more interceptions in the decade of the 1980s.

"I was very successful as a freshman and I gained a lot of respect from other teams," says O'Neal. "But then we changed coaches and I had to learn a different scheme. My second coach (Bobby Trott, now with the New York Giants) taught me to be more of a zone player and read routes. During my sophomore season, most teams went the opposite way from me and I didn't have the stats that I had as a freshman. It was a letdown, because even though I was grading out high, all people noticed was that I wasn't getting any interceptions. I know that it is a compliment when teams throw away from you, but you still want to be the one who can make the play."

Prior to O'Neal's junior campaign, he welcomed his third secondary coach to Clemson, as Ron Dickerson took over as defensive coordinator/secondary coach. "Having another coaching change was difficult, but I got to be good friends with Coach Dickerson and we worked well together. My stats were still down as far as interceptions, but I graded out high week after week. I don't think I missed a tackle until the final game of the season. Those are the things that the fans don't see, but that I have learned to take a lot of pride." O'Neal only had two interceptions as a junior, but was nonetheless a first-team all-conference choice.

Many prognosticators predicted that O'Neal would opt for the pro ranks after his junior season, and most agree that if he had chosen that route, he would have been successful. But O'Neal decided to finish out his eligibility and once again, his father had a big part in the decision. In addition to becoming the first four-time All-ACC player in Clemson history, O'Neal had other goals.

O'Neal was an offensive guard when he was a youth, a position he quickly outgrew.

"My father, who is kind of quiet, told me before I left home to come to college that he wanted to see me get my degree. He wants to be able to hang that degree on the wall. That means more to him than any football award. That was a big part of my staying at Clemson. I will be the first person in my family to get a degree from a major college and that will be my greatest accomplishment, to me and my parents." O'Neal is scheduled to graduate in the summer of 1993 with a degree in management.

O'Neal is also glad he stayed for his senior season for several other reasons. "In the middle of the season, I asked myself if I had done the right thing because I was taking a lot of criticism," he says somberly. "People were saying I wasn't playing aggressive enough and that I wasn't playing hard enough. But I've taken that criticism and used it to get better. Am I aggressive enough now? Look at the film and tell me. I'm always in there, ranking in the top two or three on the team in tackles. I don't see that as being timid.

"But I'm also glad I stayed because these guys are my friends. Once you go pro, you're an adult and you're out there on your own. One year won't change that if it is meant for me to go to the pros. This year has helped me become more of a team player and it has helped me gain more confidence in my ability. I'm a competitor. I think that because I stayed, I can look back on my college career and say that I did it my way, and that my way was the right way."

Because he is picked to be a high draft choice, O'Neal is getting the standard bombardment of attention that befits an athlete of his caliber. "It's scary," he admits. "There is so much pressure on me because everybody's expectations are so high. I've never felt so much pressure in my life. If I make a mistake, I can't erase it. I can't say at least I have next year to improve. This is it. It is hard for people to understand because they think it is guaranteed that I will be making a lot of money next year, but you can't understand until you are in this situation. My parents always told me that God has given me a talent, but He could just as easily take it away if I don't use it like I should. I've seen many projected first rounders go in the seventh or eighth round.

"But I don't think the pressure will end when I hear my name called in April. Then I will have to make the team and then you have to keep performing well each and every day. I don't ever want to be content. I want to use any success I have as a motivation to work harder."

Once again, O'Neal credits his parents for helping him handle the pressures that his senior season has brought. "There were many times when I could have just folded my tent up," he says. "But to be able to go to my parents and just have them tell me that everything is going to work out and to have them reassure me that they love me no matter what means more than anything in the world. I know that my parents' love and influence have made a big difference in my life. They have been there through park ball, eighth grade, B-team, varsity, college, and they will be there the rest of the way. Whether it has been to get me off of the offensive line, to get me in a good pair of shoes, to keep me from getting the big head, or to helping me earn my degree, they have supported me and kept me strong. I owe all of my success to them."

Dr. Max Lennon

Clemson University President Max Lennon's ambition is to be president of the nation's top technologically-oriented land grant university. And he doesn't plan to leave campus to achieve that goal. Because that's the vision Lennon has for Clemson: not to be "one of the best," but to be better at what it does than any other school.

To achieve the vision, Lennon has brought the business world's concepts of total quality management and strategic planning to the academic arena. He hopes these concepts will help reduce bureaucracy, increase involvement of students, faculty and staff in the management of the university, increase diversity, and create an atmosphere of a community of scholars.

"The vision statement that has emerged from the strategic planning process — to become the nation's leading technologically-oriented land-grant university — sets a challenging course for this institution's development: to become the best in our league," he has said.

It is this commitment to excellence that has enabled Lennon to lead Clemson to new heights during his six years as president. The Lennon presidency has seen the completion of the most successful campaign in the university's, and the state's, history; unprecedented growth in research, topping $90 million in annual expenditures last year; and an ongoing program of campus revitalization that balances the university's desire for technological excellence, cultural awareness, and historic preservation.

Lennon came to Clemson from Ohio State University, where he had been president for agriculture administration and executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. He also served on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and co-chaired the Governor's Commission on Agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture at Ohio State, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri, and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon is a native of Columbus County, NC, and earned his bachelor's degree and doctorate from N.C. State University, where he began his teaching career.

The Clemson president has been active in a number of civic and professional groups, ranging from the local Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce to the Board of Directors of EARTH in Costa Rica, which through education and investments aims to improve Third World agriculture.

Lennon has served as chairman of the Foreign Assistance Act Committee of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC), Chairman of the South Carolina Public Colleges and Universities Council of Presidents, and member of the boards of the S.C. Research Authority, Greenville Urban League, Farm Foundation, Duke Power, First Union, and Delta Woodside.

In the fall of 1987, Lennon was named to the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation, a national organization devoted to improving research and education to benefit rural areas. In 1988, he was appointed to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Policy Advisory Committee for Science and Education Research Grants Program by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, and was a keynote speaker at the AgBiotech 88 international conference in Washington.

Lennon also was appointed to chair a committee of top administrators and federal officials from 11 universities across the nation to work with congress on legislation relating to foreign assistance and international development. The committee is a project of the National Association of State Universities and land-grant colleges.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon. This past year, they joined an elite group of people who can call themselves "Clemson Parents" when both children, Daniel Ray and Robin, received degrees from the university.

Dr. Max Lennon hopes to make Clemson the top technologically-oriented land-grant university in the nation.

Head Coach Ken Hatfield

When Clemson recorded its 1991 victory over Duke halfway around the world in Tokyo, Japan, Tiger head coach Ken Hatfield celebrated not just his first-ever Atlantic Coast Conference regular season title, but also his 100th victory as a head coach. Even though Hatfield has been in coaching only since 1979, he has placed his name among the top mentors in the nation.

Heading into the 1992 season, Hatfield is tied for third with Florida State's Bobby Bowden in wins among active coaches who have coached at a Division I school each of the last 10 years. He posts a 92-28-2 record in that time frame. And Hatfield's .762 winning percentage over the last 10 years ranks fourth among active coaches who have coached at Division I schools in each year of the last decade.

When Hatfield took over the Clemson program prior to the 1990 season, he was faced with the challenge of continuing the tradition of excellence set in the eighties (only Nebraska and Miami had fewer losses in that time frame than Clemson). Hatfield has more than met the challenge, posting a 19-4-1 mark for the Tigers in his first two seasons.

The victory over Illinois in the 1991 Hall of Fame Bowl made Hatfield the first Clemson coach to win 10 games in his first year and his .833 winning percentage is the best for a first-year Clemson coach since 1900 when John Heisman was 6-0. The 1990 season included six wins over teams with winning records. Only national champion Georgia Tech had more.

Hatfield was just the eighth coach in the last 13 years to take a team to a Top 10 AP final ranking in his first year with the program. He was the first ACC coach in history to take a team to a final AP top 10 ranking in his first year at a school.

But Hatfield's impressive debut at Clemson was no big surprise to those who have followed his career. He has enjoyed success throughout his involvement with the sport of football, as a player and coach.

As a player, he helped Arkansas face every challenge in 1964, when the Razorbacks had an 11-0 season and won the national title. As an assistant coach at Tennessee and Florida, he molded countless players into top-notch athletes who competed for Southeastern Conference titles, played in seven bowl games in a 10-year period, and ranked in the final top-20 five times. As a head coach, he took a dormant Air Force program to a number-13 national ranking and a pair of bowl wins. He continued to meet the challenges at Arkansas, his alma mater, guiding the Razorbacks to back-to-back Southwest Conference titles, something that had not been done at Arkansas since Hatfield was a player.

Hatfield has had five 10-win seasons in his career and has accomplished that task at three different schools. He is the only active coach and one of just two in the history of the game to have taken three different schools to a 10-win season.

Hatfield has taken his teams to 10 consecutive post-season bowls, including January 1 appearances five of the last six years. He is one of just four active coaches to take a team to a bowl each of the last 10 years. He is in noteworthy company as the other members of that exclusive club are Tom Osborne (Nebraska), LaVell Edwards (BYU), and Bobby Bowden (Florida State).

Hatfield has an overall record of 100-53-3 (.651), but he has won 78 percent of his games over the last eight seasons (84-23-2). At Arkansas, he posted a record of 55-17-1 over six seasons, a .760 winning percentage. That percentage is second best in Southwest Conference history as only Darrell Royal (Texas 1957-76) had a better percentage.

The native of Helena, Arkansas, played in two bowl games with the Razorbacks, coached in seven post-season games as an assistant and the 1992 Citrus Bowl marked the 10th in which he has been the head coach. Seven times he has coached a team to a top 20 final ranking in the AP poll, and he played on two other top 15 teams. The 9-2-1 ledger and #18 AP ranking in 1991 gave him seven top 20 finishes in the last 10 years.

Hatfield-coached clubs have excelled offensively and defensively, but they have been particularly successful in rushing offense and defense. Each of his last 10 teams has finished in the top 20 nationally in rushing offense, including seven top 10 finishes. This includes last year's team, which averaged 252 yards a game.

Two of his last four Arkansas teams finished in the top three in the country in turnover margin, including his 1988 team that was first in the nation (Clemson was second that same year). Defensively, his clubs have finished in the top 15 in the nation in rushing defense six of the last seven years. The Tigers were ranked first in the nation in total defense, second in rushing defense, and second in scoring defense at the end of the 1990 regular season. Clemson ranked first in the nation in rushing defense and fourth in total defense in the 1991 season.

Hatfield has coached in four major conferences and with independent schools, giving him a diverse background in the finer points of the game. It is one reason he was named the third best teaching coach in college football by Inside Sports Magazine in 1990.

Hatfield began his coaching career immediately after graduation. In the fall of 1965, he served as an assistant coach at Helena-West Helena High School in Arkansas. In 1966, he moved to West Point, where he served as freshman coach for two seasons.

After the two-year stint at Army, he served as an assistant coach at Tennessee for three years (1968-70). The Volunteers went to post-season bowls all three seasons (including two major bowls), won a conference title and ranked in the final top 20 of the AP poll all three seasons, including a number-four ranking in 1970.

In 1971, Hatfield began a seven-year stint at the University of Florida, spending four seasons as a defensive backfield coach and three as an offensive backfield mentor. Florida played in four bowl games during his career in Gainesville and two more Gator teams finished in the AP top 20, including the 1974 team that played Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

Clemson won the ACC in 1991, Ken Hatfield's second year at Clemson. He has guided Clemson to a pair of Top 20 seasons in his first two years.

Hatfield became offensive coordinator at the Air Force Academy under former New York Giants Head Coach Bill Parcells in 1978. A year later, Parcells was wooed to the Big Apple and Hatfield became the Falcons' head coach. The Air Force program had not had a winning season since 1973. But by his fourth season, Hatfield had an eight-game winner, led Air Force to its first-ever victory over Notre Dame, and had taken the Falcons to a post-season bowl for the first time since 1971.

In 1983, Hatfield was named national Coach-of-the-Year by the Football Coaches Association (Bobby Dodd Award) after leading Air Force to a 10-2 season that included wins over Notre Dame, Navy and a bowl victory over Mississippi. It was the Academy's first-ever win over Notre Dame in South Bend.

The next year, Hatfield succeeded Lou Holtz at Arkansas, where he would take his alma mater to 55 wins in six seasons, six bowl appearances and four final top-15 rankings. His 1985 club finished with a 10-2 mark and number-12 national ranking, the Razorbacks' first Top 20 finish since 1982. Four times the Razorbacks rallied from fourth quarter deficits to gain victory.

The 1986 campaign was another year of success with highlight victories over a nationally ranked Texas A&M club and the Razorbacks' first win in 20 years at Texas. Arkansas advanced to the Orange Bowl and finished 15th in the final AP poll.

Arkansas won the 1988 and 1989 Southwest Conference Championships and the Razorbacks never finished lower than second in his six years at Fayetteville. He was named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Year in 1988 as he took the Razorbacks to the league title and a 10-0 start. Miami (FL) defeated Arkansas 18-16 in the Orange Bowl to stop the streak. Seven players off the 1988 club (all recruited by Hatfield) were drafted by the NFL, an Arkansas single draft record.

After the 1989 team's 10-2 ledger and second straight SWC championship, Hatfield was named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Decade by the Houston Post. Included in the victories was a triumph over a top-15 Houston team and Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware.

Hatfield has also had success off the field. A recent release by the CFA cited his 1989 Arkansas class for excellence in terms of graduation rate (over 80 percent), one of the top 10 figures in the nation.

Hatfield played for three years at Arkansas (1962-64) and he was a starter on the National Championship team of 1964. A defensive back by trade, he earned his fame as the nation's top punt returner in 1963 and 1964. He also finished as the runner-up as a sophomore and is still the only college football player to finish in the top two in the nation in punt returns three straight seasons.

His most memorable play took place against Texas in 1964 when he raced 81 yards with a punt return for a touchdown in Arkansas' thrilling 14-13 victory. It was the key victory in the Razorbacks' championship season. Altogether, Hatfield scored five TDs via punt returns in his career, including an Arkansas record 95-yard return against Tulsa in 1963.

An accounting major who earned his diploma in the spring of 1965, Hatfield was an Academic All-American in 1964 and was the recipient of the Swartz Award, presented annually to the top student-athlete at Arkansas. The 1964 All-SWC selection was inducted into the Arkansas Sports Hall of Fame in 1989.

YOUR UNUSED TICKETS COULD HELP ERIC TACKLE THE BOOKS.

Eric attends a Homework Center – a place that helps him when Mom and Dad can't. And when he works especially hard, he can win wonderful prizes – like tickets to a Clemson home game that he might otherwise never get to see.

Hundreds of Homework Centers across the nation focus on keeping struggling students from becoming dropouts. In actuality, they're doing a lot more than that. Many hardworking students are bringing their grades up from F's to A's, and in one South Carolina elementary school expulsions declined from 38 to 4 after the centers opened.

Duke Power is proud to help support such an important and effective program. We invite you to help too. Simply donate football or basketball season tickets you're unable to use or purchase extra tickets to contribute to the Homework Centers for use as prizes. Send them at least two weeks before game day to: John Geer, Duke Power Company, P.O. Box 1745, Clemson, SC 29633.

If you do, you'll be helping students like Eric tackle the books today so that tomorrow they can tackle the world.

Clemson Coaches

The 1991-92 Clemson all-around sports program finished another successful year, as 13 of the 18 programs ranked in the top 25 of their respective final sports. Included in that 13 were 10 programs that were ranked in the top 20, tying the Clemson record for top 20 teams in an academic year. The highest ranked teams were the men's indoor track team (second) and baseball squad (seventh). The men's all-around sports program finished the year ranked 25th nationally.

Clemson teams laid claim to three ACC Championships last year as the football team won its first championship since 1988. The women's indoor track team won the ACC Indoor Track Meet giving the team its first ever ACC indoor championship. The men's track team also won the ACC indoor title for the fourth straight year. Clemson had 64 All-ACC selections and 27 All-Americans, tying the all-time record for All-America selections in a single academic year.

Men's spring sports and women's sports had an outstanding year. All four of Clemson's men's spring sports teams finished in the top 20 of their respective sports, the first time since 1987-88 that all four spring teams ranked in the final top 20. Baseball finished seventh, golf and men's track finished 12th, while the men's tennis team finished 20th. Five of Clemson's seven women's teams finished in the top 25. The women's outdoor track team finished 17th, the women's basketball team was 19th, the women's swimming team was 20th, the women's indoor track team was 22nd, and the women's tennis team was 23rd.

Clemson also excelled in the classroom during the 1991-92 campaign. Clemson student-athletes had a record semester in the spring, when 109 competitors made a 3.0 or better. Former football player Bruce Bratton and women's swimmer Liz Dolan won two of the highest academic awards distributed by the ACC. The Bob James Award was given to Bratton, while Dolan was presented with the Marie James Award. These scholarship awards are given to the top student-athletes, regardless of sport in the ACC.

Clemson had one National Coach-of-the-Year and two coaches were named the best in the ACC. Bob Pollock received both National Coach-of-the-Year and ACC Coach-of-the-Year honors after leading the track team to its best finish ever at the NCAA indoor meet. Wayne Coffman, women's indoor track coach, was named the ACC and District III Coach-of-the-Year.

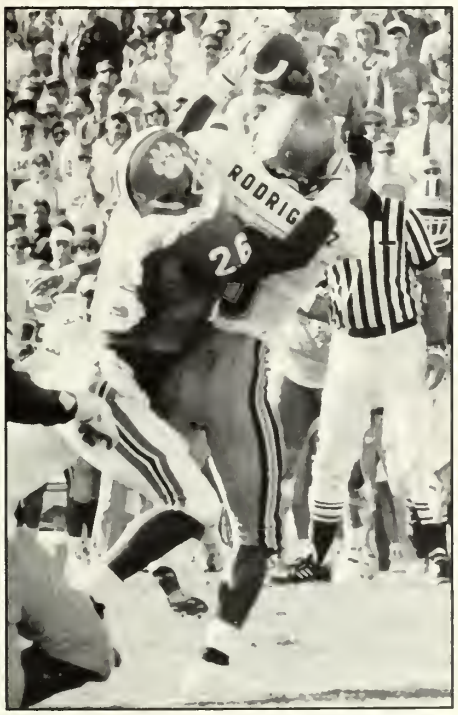
The Atlantic Coast Conference

*Three members of the ACC rank among the top seven schools in the history of college football in bowl game winning percentage (given a minimum of 15 bowl games). Georgia Tech is first with a 17-8 record, for 68 percent, while Clemson is sixth at 11-7, a 61.1 percent mark. Florida State, who will compete for the ACC crown for the first time in 1992, is seventh with an 11-7-2 record, good enough for 60 percent.
*ACC football attacted a league record 2,519,127 fans to its games last season. Over a 55-game schedule of home contests, that is an average of 45,802 per game. The previous records of 2,068,558 total fans and an average of 43,095, were established in 1985.
*Six of the nine ACC schools have been listed in various top 35 rankings of preseason polls for the 1992 season.
*The 1991 season marked the second straight year that the ACC placed five teams in postseason bowls. The ACC has had 14 bowl invitations over the last three seasons, a record for any three- year stretch in league history.
*Only four coaches in the nation have taken a team to a postseason bowl game each of the last 10 years. Two of them, Ken Hatfield of Clemson and Bobby Bowden of Florida State, coach in the ACC.
*The ACC is second only to the Pac 10 in terms of bowl game winning percentage over the years. The ACC members have a combined mark of 64-56-5 for a .532 figure, while the Pac 10 is 73-58-6 for a .555 mark.
*Last year, 27 different ACC players made honorable mention All-American or better. This includes five players from Clemson, Rob Bodine, Ed McDaniel, Jeb Flesch, Levon Kirkland and Nelson Welch.
*Nine ACC players were chosen by at least one first-team All-America squad. Four of the nine players were from Clemson. This was the most first-team All-America players from Clemson in the school's history.
*Clemson and Florida State both rank among the top three in the nation in winning percentage over the last five years. Since 1987, Florida State is second only to Miami, while Clemson is third.
*The ACC had the second best non-conference winning percentage in the nation last year with a 15-9-1 record, a 62 percent mark. In 1990 the ACC ranked first, winning 25 of 32 games.
*Six of the nine ACC teams had winning records in 1991, tying a league mark for a single season.
*The ACC could be termed a coach's league. Five of the nine league coaches have 100 career wins or more entering the 1992 season. Those five coaches are Bobby Bowden of Florida State (206), Bill Dooley of Wake Forest (154), George Welsh of Virginia (121), Dick Sheridan of N.C. State (112) and Ken Hatfield of Clemson (100).
*Bowden, Sheridan and Hatfield are all among the top 15 winningest active coaches on a percentage basis. The ACC and the SEC are the only two conferences with three coaches ranked among the top 15 winningest active coaches.
*The ACC was the only conference in the nation that featured five different teams that won at least eight games in 1991. Florida State, Clemson, N.C. State, Georgia Tech and Virginia all hit the eight-win mark. The ACC was also the only conference in which at least half of its teams won at least eight games. The Pac-10 and the SEC each had four teams with at least eight wins.
*In 1991, the ACC had five teams ranked in the top 35 in the nation in total defense, more teams in the top 35 than any other conference in the nation. Clemson led the way with a fourth-place finish and a figure of 263.2 yards per game. The league also had five members among the top 30 teams in the nation in scoring defense.
*The ACC also has a reputation for outstanding field goal kickers. In 1991, six of the top 44 field goal kickers in the country were from the ACC. Clemson's Nelson Welch led the way with an average of 1.55 per game, good enough for fourth in the nation. Only five kickers booted five field goals in a game last year across the country. Two of the five, Clemson's Nelson Welch, and Mike Green of Wake Forest, played in the ACC.
*The ACC was also the top conference in the nation for nationally ranked punt returners in 1991. Seven of the top 45 punt returners in the nation were from the ACC. Clemson's Darnell Stephens led the conference and finished eighth in the nation.



Clemson and Georgia Tech were two of five ACC schools with at least eight wins in 1991.

Ken Hatfield is one of five active ACC coaches with at least 100 career wins.

IPTAY

Traditions are something that don't happen overnight, they evolve over a number of years. One tradition at Clemson that is going strong and heading into its 58th year is IPTAY. The IPTAY Scholarship Foundation, is known throughout the country for its faithful and generous contributions by its supporters. A recent USA Today article calls IPTAY tne best-known organization of its kind in the nation. The article noted that at a time when college athletic costs are rising IPTAY continues to lead the way in supporting athletic scholarships at Clemson. IPTAY plays a major role in insuring that all 18 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships allowed by the NCAA.

Thanks in part to IPTAY's contributions the 1991-1992 academic year proved to be one of the most successful ever for Clemson athletics. Thirteen of the 18 athletic teams at Clemson finished the year ranked in the top 25 in their respective sports. Ten of those teams were ranked in the top 20, which ties for the most top 20 teams at Clemson in an academic year.

An even more impressive fact was that Clemson had 27 All-Americans in 1991-1992, tying the record that was set during that 1990-1991 academic year. Clemson also had 64 first-team All-ACC selections, the third most in Clemson history for an academic year.

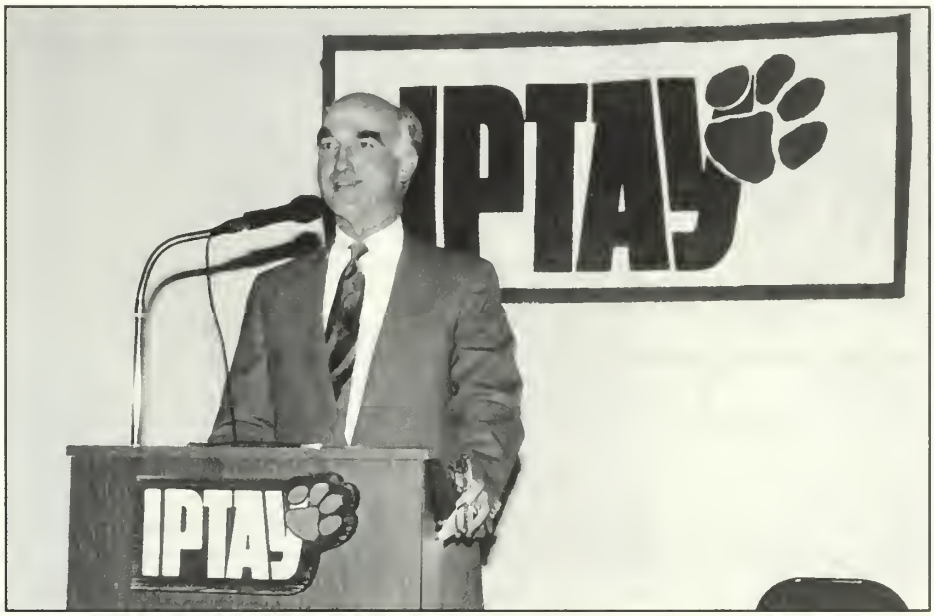
Over the last five years, 16 of Clemson's 18 teams have been ranked in the top 25 in the country at one time or another. During this time the Clemson football, women's cross country, women's basketball and golf teams have been in the top 25 all five years, while the men's indoor track, baseball, women's track and women's swimming teams have had four top 20 seasons.

The success of the Clemson athletic program comes during a time when the integrity and accountability of the academic progress of student-athletes are receiving national attention. IPTAY has been a large part of that success by being committed to the student-athlete.

IPTAY is recognized as one of the oldest, largest and most successful athletic fundraising organizations in America. IPTAY was the first athletic fundraising organization in the country to top the two, three, four, and five-million dollar marks in annual donations. It has had a record-breaking total for 28 straight years.

In 1934, Dr. Rupert Fike founded IPTAY with a very simple purpose in mind: IPTAY provides funds for athletic scholarships. Since 1934 IPTAY has certainly met Fike's goal, providing scholarships for over 5,000 student-athletes, trainers, and managers.

IPTAY currently provides the funds for tutorial programs staffed by trained academic advisors, assisted by graduate and undergraduate students. This support is intended to insure that all student-athletes are given the opportunity to earn their degree while participating in athletics.



Allison Dalton is the leader of America's top athletic scholarship foundation.

IPTAY donors have also played an intricate role in the "Campaign for Clemson", a long range fund-raising project of the University. The University's original goal of 62 million dollars was surpassed with the next goal of 78 million also being surpassed in the campaign that ended on June 30, 1992. IPTAY provided three million dollars with ongoing opportunities for donors to be part of the Vickery Hall Academic Learning Center.

Vickery Hall, located on East Campus is a 27,000 square foot facility that houses the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. The building contains various-sized study and tutoring rooms used for individual study as well as small group instruction. Computer facilities, an office/reception area for the advising staff and an auditorium, also are contained in Vickery Hall.

The generous support of 18,200 loyal donors to IPTAY has allowed the organization to go beyond the funding of athletic scholarships by providing the financial basis for many of the unparalled athletic facilities at Clemson.

Since 1978, IPTAY has provided the funding for $34 million of capital improvements in the area of athletics. These improvements include the expansion of the football stadium, the newly renovated baseball facility (Tiger Field), the new outdoor track, the indoor tennis facility, the soccer stadium, the weight room, the new golf practice area, a new cross country course, and the IPTAY/Ticket office facility.

IPTAY is also proud to provide the funding for Tiger Band. Each year IPTAY establishes financial support for travel, uniforms and equipment for this integral part of the Clemson athletic program.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. This scholarship endowment is funded by certain company gifts that are made as a result of employee contributions to IPTAY. In addition, the athletic department has made generous contributions to the endowment from athletic revenues.

The IPTAY Academic Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson providing $1.8 million in funds, currently benefitting more than 50 students. IPTAY's support extends to all of the student body.

The tremendous support of IPTAY is due, in large part, to the organizational makeup that allows donors to be as close to IPTAY as they are to their local IPTAY leadership. Each of South Carolina's 46 counties has an IPTAY County chairman, and every county is alloted an IPTAY representative for every 35 donors.

One important way IPTAY keeps in touch with its membership is the annual Clemson Club meeting held in April and May of each year. These meetings, which feature different coaches and administrators, are just one of the ways of making the local IPTAY members feel close to Clemson.

Clemson University will continue to be recognized and respected on the national level athletically and academically with the full support of IPTAY. IPTAY will continue to be successful because a loyal commitment to Clemson University is a way of life in the hearts of Clemson alumni and friends.

Norris Brown

by Brett Sowell

Sunday is generally thought of by most as a day of rest. For Debi Brown, Sunday takes on added significance because this is the day that she gets to spend time with her husband Norris. The reason she doesn't see Norris that much on the six remaining days in the week is because Norris is not the average husband. Norris is a Clemson football player.

Norris Brown is a senior defensive back, who is unique because he is married, is a student, and plays football. He met his wife Debi in one of Clemson's computer labs, and since his marriage, well, he has had a new perspective on certain aspects of his life.

"Before I got married, football was a major thing in my life," said Brown, who has played three of the four secondary positions this year. " Now that I am married it still is a major part of my life, but I see it as a game, and treat it as a game." Brown also noticed his academic career taking on new significance. "My books come first and they are more important to me now because I have a family to support in the future. Its not just yourself that you are thinking about."

A conflicting schedule can be cited as the reason that Norris and Debi see each other the most on Sunday. "I don't usually come home until about 5:30 PM or 6:00 PM, and Norris doesn't come home until about 9:00 PM on weekdays. After eating and doing homework the day is gone. I don't get to spend as much time with him as I would like, but Sunday is usually set aside as our day," Debi says.

Norris, as noted earlier, isn't your average husband, but in all respect to Debi, she's not your average wife. Norris, in fact, probably has more support than most of his teammates.

"Debi is my best friend, she gives me all the support that I need and at times when things are looking bad I can always go to her. Her point of view may not necessarily be what I like to hear, but sometimes that is what I need," Norris adds.

Currently, Debi has a job and is taking a graduate course. She can relate somewhat to Norris' often hectic and tiring schedule. "When Norris comes home he is really tired, and with my job and class, I am tired too. We try to help each other out by doing our homework together. But I really don't know how Norris does it between school and football," Debi adds.

On the football field most fans will remember Norris Brown's performance against Florida State this season. It was in that game that Brown recorded two interceptions and brought some light to Clemson's first night game in 36 years.

"Thus far the Florida State game has been my most memorable game while at Clemson. It was exciting in a big game on national television. To have not one, but two interceptions, well, I felt I had a pretty big game that night."

This year Brown has not only taken on the role of a starter, but he has also seen his leadership role increase. He feels it is important to provide leadership this season because the Tigers possess a lot of young players.

"I think senior leadership is very important this year in the sense that we have a lot of young guys on our team. I think as a senior we should relate to the young guys the importance of continuing the progress that they need to have. It is important for us to show them to try to work harder each and every day so that we will have the winning team that they want," Brown says.

Brown is one of the most valuable members of the secondary because of his abilities to play three different positions.

Brown's first experience in football came in the ninth grade at Conway High School. He was a member of several all-star teams coming out of high school. The State placed him on its all-state team as did the Greenville News. He was also a member of Max Emfinger's National High School Recruiting Service's top 375 players coming out of high school. In 1988 Norris was one of eight current Tigers to play in the Shrine Bowl. It was in this game that Brown met one of his future teammates literally head on.

"My most memorable moment in the Shrine Bowl came when I tackled Howard Hall. I brought him down and he was a big fellow back then, and he still is a big guy. At that point I only weighed about 165 pounds," Brown recalls.

Before the 1992 season Brown spent his summer helping low income and handicapped youth find summer jobs. He did this while working as a youth counselor for Sunbelt Human Advancement Resources, Inc., located in Seneca. In all, Brown and another volunteer helped 80 kids locate jobs in three and a half months. This experience worked out well for Brown in several aspects, as it not only counted towards an internship in his major, but most importantly because he likes working with youth. He also had a major part in bringing an exciting end to the summer for the youth.

"During the summer I went around to several banks trying to raise money for a summer ending picnic for the youth in the program. I also invited our football team out to the picnic. With both the money raised and the presence of our football team it turned out to be a memorable day for all the kids."

After leaving Clemson, Norris Brown hopes to use his degree in industrial education to find employment in some type of personnel training and development. Brown has already proven to be a valuable asset to any type of team he works with, whether it be on the field or off. He has an understanding of the importance of a hard work ethic, an ethic he attributes to his family.

"I think I received my work ethic from my family, we work hard for the things that we have and we know that nothing comes free. I understand that you don't get anything unless you work for it and I think that has been in me since I was young," says Brown.

Norris Brown is a special Tiger. From his marriage, to his student life, his volunteer work, and his football, he has proved to be winner. When asked to give some advice to his younger teammates about the thought of marriage, Norris had this to say. "When you are thinking about getting married make sure you are making the right choice and don't enter into it hastily."

And, keep those Sundays open.

Eric Geter

By Chris Metzler

In football there is a tendency for players to rely heavily on each other in order to be victorious. Frequently, through years of hard work beside one another, players develop an understanding of each other that often leads to a strong friendship off the field.

Such is the case with Eric Geter and Robert O'Neal. In the summer of 1989 these two defensive backs began their careers as Clemson Tigers. Over the years they have both earned starting positions in the secondary and have learned to work well with one another on the field. They have also developed a strong friendship that has helped Geter as a player and a person.

"Robert O'Neal has helped me a great deal and has really meant a lot to me," said Geter. "He has been my roommate ever since I have been here. He is not only my roommate; but, he is also my best friend. During hard times we talk and he has always been there for me to rely on. I try to be there for him when he needs me."

Robert O'Neal also feels that Eric has helped him quite a bit. "Eric and I have a very special friendship. It began when we were freshmen and it has grown stronger ever since. I feel like I can talk to him about anything, whether it is about football or a personal matter. There are not too many people you can say that about. There is no doubt that I'm a better player and a better person because of Eric."

Geter has also become a better player because of O'Neal. With an All-America candidate playing beside him, Geter receives a large amount of support on the field through O'Neal's use of speed and his ability to read the play. "Robert is a great player. I am happy he has received all the recognition that he has. He has inspired me to become a better player. Working with him has definitely improved me as a player. I would like to have the recognition that Robert or some other players have, but if the team does well, then I am happy. "

Geter also has improved himself as a player, by giving 100 percent on each play, whether it is during practice or during a game and by transforming his personality to fit that of a defensive back. "During practice I work very hard, as if it were a game. I am always thinking of what I can do at practice to get better. When it is game time I give my all on every play. I also think that my personality changes when I walk on the field whether it is game time or practice time.

"Off the field I am a quiet and shy person, but when I go on the field I am focused on what I have to do. If that means knocking this guy's head off, then that's what I do. I am more aggressive on the field by far than I am off it. I do a lot of things on the field that I would not do off the field, I think that every great defensive player has to have this type of game mentality in order to preform to their utmost."

Eric Geter's football career began at a young age. "I started playing Pee Wee football when I was eight on a team called the Blue Eagles. My dad was the coach and he pushed me to become the best player I could become. He has since been a great inspiration to me. The special thing about my dad is that he has never criticized me. He has always been there for me, giving me support. He will say that he saw that I made a great play, or he will say `that happens' after I got beat, but he never says anything negative."

Before beginning his career as a football player, Eric was a baseball player. He continued to play baseball through his senior year in high school. During his prep years he earned four letters in both football and baseball. He was a good baseball player, as he showed in his junior baseball season when he batted .512, but stopped playing baseball so he could concentrate on football in college. Geter's mother was not in favor of his move from baseball to football, but did not keep him from playing. "My mom has always preferred baseball over football because it is a safer sport and she has a better understanding of baseball, but she has always supported me since I started my athletic career."

Geter leads the Tigers in passes broken up in 1992.

Although his mother did not want him to play football, he did continue to play. From those Pee Wee days to the present, Geter has always tried to develop as an athlete and move to the next level. "When I played for my dad I saw myself as a baseball player, I hated football. But after deciding that I would continue to play football, I wanted to be one of the best players. I wanted to be good enough so I could move up to the next level. From the Pee Wee team to high school I worked very hard on improving. When I was on my high school team I worked hard to make it in college. No one in my family ever went to a major college and I wanted to not only make it to college, but be successful there."

Geter's hard work in high school paid off as he was named by Super Prep Magazine to their All-America teams and the number-one defensive back in the nation. Street and Smith also named him to their All-America team. He was also an accomplished running back in high school where he rushed for 1,281 yards and scored 16 touchdowns as a senior. He also caught 23 passes for 371 yards and two touchdowns in his senior season.

Following a strong senior year in high school, Geter decided to come to Clemson where he has also had success. Entering the South Carolina game Geter has started 22 games and played in all 48 contests the Tigers had been in since his arrival. His best game came in 1991 verses Georgia Tech when he had a career high eight tackles. At the end of that contest he was named Exxon Supreme Player-of-the-Game. Now in his second season as the Tigers starting corner, he leads the team in passes broken up and is a prime reason Clemson is in the top 25 in the nation in total defense and scoring defense. He also has a pair of interceptions, including one last week at Maryland.

Since Geter was raised in a strong, Christian family led by his father, who is a preacher, he not only wants to be known as a good football player, but as a good person. " When I leave Clemson I want to be known for my consistent play and for being a good person. I was brought up to be respectful and to treat others as I wish to be treated. I also want people to be glad to say they have known me. I hope that my teammates will always regard me as a team player and that the coaches remember me as someone who was coachable, represented Clemson well off the field, and someone who gave it all he had for the team."

Out of respect for the Clemson football team, please wait until after the game to run to your Jeep® and Eagle dealer.

We realize that it could be difficult to sit through an entire game knowing that you could be driving one of these tempting new vehicles. Jeep Grand Cherokee's optional new 220 horsepower V8 engine is enough to send even the most die-hard fan to one of the exits. And as if that weren't enough, there's the totally new Eagle Vision TSi with a 214 horsepower engine and dual air bags standard. So please, be polite, look at the pictures, root for the home team and, if you must, leave at halftime. Your local dealer will have the game on the radio.

Kim Graham

by Annabelle Vaughan

The 1991 ACC Outdoor Track and Field Championships in Chapel Hill, NC, will go down in history as one of the most exciting meets in conference annals. The seniors on the North Carolina women's team had never lost a conference track meet, as they had won the last four indoor ACC titles and the three previous outdoor championships. The streak seemed to have a good chance of standing as the Lady Tar Heels were competing on their home track. Clemson on the other hand had never won a conference track title.

But UNC, as well as the rest of the Atlantic Coast Conference, hadn't counted on Kim Graham almost singlehandedly spoiling their plans. Clemson's bright-eyed junior sprinter had already won the 200 meters, finished second in the 100 meters, and anchored the Tigers' winning 4x100 meter relay. But heading into the last event of the last day, the 4x400 meter relay, Wayne Coffman's Lady Tigers were one point down to the Tar Heels and Graham, the relay's anchor leg, was tired.

"It was all will power at that point," Graham remembers. "We were so close to winning and we wanted it so badly. When I ran that quarter, I didn't realize what I was doing. I came around the first turn and I was thinking, 'Ohmigosh, I'm running real, real, real fast. I don't know if I can hold this.'"

But Graham did hold it, and blew by the other competitors on the home stretch. The Lady Tigers ended up finishing almost a full second ahead of North Carolina and an uproarious celebration greeted Graham at the finish line. "I couldn't even walk," says Graham. "It was just will power and pain tolerance that helped me get across the line. Everybody was celebrating and I was all hurt. But that was the sweetest victory I have ever had."

Graham has the memories of quite a few victories to choose from. She began running track at the ripe old age of six, as her father, Herman Graham, an ex-track star himself, enlisted his children to compete on his Little League Track team, the Durham Striders.

"I used to come out of the blocks at age seven," Graham laughs. "When my Dad thought we were old enough, he would put us out there and make us run the 100. I guess he thought I was pretty fast. He made me run the 400 meters and I hated it. I would cry and say, 'Please don't make me do it.' But he would tell me I could do it and I would go out there and win all the time. I still hold the record for six-year-olds in the 400 meters, but oooh, I hated it! When I would cross the finish line, I would fall and my Dad would come pick me up and call me 'Champ.' I only remember getting beat one time and it was a battle between me and a girl from the New York Flyers."

When Graham advanced to the junior high school ranks, she put aside the 400 meters for the shorter sprints, although she has proven that she can still run a pretty mean quarter-mile when called upon. She was ranked third in the nation in the 100 and 200 meters by USA Today as a prepster and was a top three finisher in both of those events at the 1989 U.S. Junior National Championships.

Since coming to Clemson, she has won three All-America honors, set seven school records (every sprint and sprint relay record except one), won 10 ACC Championships, and has been named the MVP of the ACC indoor or outdoor meet three times. Last year, she finished second at the NCAA outdoor championships in the 200 meters and competed in the U.S. Olympic Trials. In 1993 she has a chance to become the ACC's first three-time outdoor MVP in women's track history.

But Graham isn't satisfied. "I want to be a national champion," she says. "Hopefully I can repeat winning the 55 and 200 (indoors) and the 100 and 200 (outdoors) at the conference meets. I also want to get the school record in the 55 meters. I've run 6.86 and the record in 6.84, so I think I can do it. I want to keep bettering my other records so nobody can come in and take them away."

"We have literally ridden Kim Graham to two ACC titles," says Head Women's Track Coach Wayne Coffman. "When we won our first title in 1991 (indoors), she had gotten beat in the 100 meters and she was determined not to get beat in the 200 meters. Then she came down to the 4x400 and she had run all of those races, but she went out and gave an incredible effort. All three of our coaches clocked her at 51.0 and that is one heckuva 400 meters. She has carried us for two years and she is ready to carry us again this year. She is a great competitor who has set lofty goals for herself and for our team."

Graham's high-pitched, little girl's voice may take people by surprise when they first encounter her, but it cannot hide her intense love of competition. "Sometimes when people hear me talk, they say, 'Did that come out of her mouth?'" Graham laughs. "But I guess I surprise them. I have always had a competitive streak. I guess its just something you are born with. I can't play putt-putt without wanting to win badly. I don't care if I break my neck and we crawl across the finish line, I'm going to crawl first. That's my attitude when it comes to running. But I want people to know that I work hard and things don't just come easily. People think that if you are a good sprinter, you are just born with speed and it's all natural ability. But I have to work hard. You have to hurt to make it."

"When you talk to Kim, she is so easy-going and mild," says Coffman. "You want to know 'where is that Tiger you see on the track.' But she is a Dr. Jekyl, Mr. Hyde. When it is time to compete, she gets keyed up and focusses in on what she is going to do. She can't stand to get beat by anybody. If you were playing jacks on the curb with Kim Graham, she would do anything it would take to win. That's the kind of competitor she is."

Tiger Band

Beth McInnis

It's hard to believe that today's game ends the 1992 Tiger football season. Most would say that it seems as though the fall just began.

Throughout the year, Tiger Band makes sure that everyone has that Clemson spirit. September saw the annual First Friday parade and IPTAY Day. As the temperatures became cooler, Homecoming arrived with all the color, pageantry and tradition Tiger fans love. The Clemson-North Carolina matchup featured Spirit Blitz.

Through it all, Tiger Band excites Tiger faithful, young and old. Today, Tiger Band salutes some of its most important members, the seniors. These students have put in countless hours throughout their years at Clemson to make this university one of the most spirited places in the world.

The season comes to a close in true Clemson fashion this weekend with week-long festivities prior to the game. The third annual "Barnyard Burn" took place Friday night with the torching of that ever-unpopular chicken coop. Additionally, ROTC beat a drum located at Howard's Rock all week long until today's kickoff.

Tiger Band celebrated the season's end after Barnyard Barn III with their annual "Pass In Review" concert. The concert featured music from all of the halftime performances this season.

The spirit of the Clemson-Carolina rivalry is obviously contagious as Tiger Band begins the day's festivities with their traditional pregame show. Fans will recall the excitement of the National Championship with the opening "Sock It To 'Em" followed by "Tiger Rag."

As Tiger Band forms the traditional script "Tigers" playing "Tiger Rag," Tiger Band Commander John Lamm will dot the "i". Lamm is in his first year as Band Commander and in his fifth year as a Tiger Band member. He is a member of the tuba section and a native of Camden, South Carolina. He is a graduate of Lugoff-Elgin High School and is majoring in Forest Resource Management. As John dots the "i", he represents all of Tiger Band's seniors.

As Commander, Lamm is responsible for day-to-day administrative tasks for the band. He organizes his staff and oversees equipment and uniforms. His staff is made up of 11 student members including the three Drum Majors and other volunteer members.

Tiger Band will then perform "Washington Post", followed by "God Bless America." After the invocation is given, the state and national colors will be presented by the Pershing Rifles, Company C-4. "The Star Spangled Banner" follows, then the memory-stirring "Clemson University Alma Mater."

Today's halftime show is titled "Tiger Ragtime Band" and is a tribute to the dixieland sound of the deep south. Tiger Band opens with "Alexander's Ragtime Band", followed by "A Closer Walk With Thee." The band will continue with "When the Saints Come Marching In" and a percussion section drum break. The halftime show will feature the Tiger Band twirlers and flagline.

And of course, no halftime would be complete without the traditional fight song, arranged by Paul Yoder - "The Song That Shakes the Southland," - TIGER RAG!!

Angela Dawkins, Twirler Captain, says she will miss every part of her involvement. "It takes a lot of time and work, but Tiger Band is probably the most rewarding thing I've done here at Clemson. I'll miss the halftimes most, I think."

John Lamm, Tiger Band Commander says the band is really one big family. "We're like brothers and sisters. We spend so much time together that we have to be. I will miss everyone a lot, but I know we'll maintain contact."

One of Lamm's favorite memories of Tiger Band is the Virginia game of the 1989 season. The game was played in Death Valley and somehow the timing was a little off.

"We were still in concert formation and the team had gathered at the top of the Hill. Before we knew it, or could do anything about it, the cannon sounded and the team ran down the Hill. Since we were not in tunnel formation, the guys just ran straight through us spread out all over the field," Lamm remembers. That was a nationally televised game by CBS and the network caused the problem.

Tiger Band is under the direction of Dr. Mark Hosler. Director of University Bands is Dr. Richard E. Goodstein. Cheryl Hosler is the Flag Coordinator and Hazel Martin is the Twirler Coordinator. Nick Peck serves as the Band Announcer and Angela Brewer is the Band Secretary.

As the Tigers take on the Gamecocks and the 1992 season comes to a close, Clemson faithful descend on their beloved university one final time. Students and alumni alike will remember this place for the special times, and special friends it has given them. Tiger Band is always an integral part of those memories and whenever Tiger fans want to remember those special moments, all they have to do is imagine the tune of "Tiger Rag." Thank you, Tiger Band for another exciting season in the Valley!

Strength Training

One of Clemson's most impressive athletic facilities is not quite as visible as the mammouth Death Valley, even though it may be an even more important reason for the Tigers' success. Clemson's strength training facility, located in Jervey Athletic Center, provides Clemson athletes with the very best in equipment, supervision and atmosphere, as the Tiger strength training staff knows that success in the area of strength training will mean success on the football field.

Head Strength Coach Gary Wade and his staff work constantly to ensure that their facility is one of the nation's best. Several renovations made over the last several years have ensured that it is among the best, on the collegiate and professional levels. It is no accident that the Tigers have posted a 63-18-3 record, won four ACC Championships, had 16 first or second-team All-Americans, and 48 first-team all-conference selections since Wade joined the Clemson staff in 1985.

Wade and his assistants, Scott Bennett, Al Caronia, Jeff Fish, Jeff Looney, and Scott Hines personally supervise the individual weight programs of hundreds of athletes. The strength training staff spends long hours working around the various schedules of each sport and even takes the facility on the road when the Tiger football team plays in a bowl game.

Emergency Services

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry. Moderation is the key with dress, food, beverage intake and physical exertion. Our two more frequent serious medical problems at football games are allergic reactions to insect stings and heart attacks.

INSECT STINGS: Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice. Seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK: The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:

1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two minutes or more.
2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea and/or shortness of breath.

Expect a Denial

Frequently heart attack victims deny they're having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don't want the embarrassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, "it's just indigestion."

Find out what's really wrong. Prompt response can dramatically increase chances of survival and recovery.

New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. "Time is muscle." Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

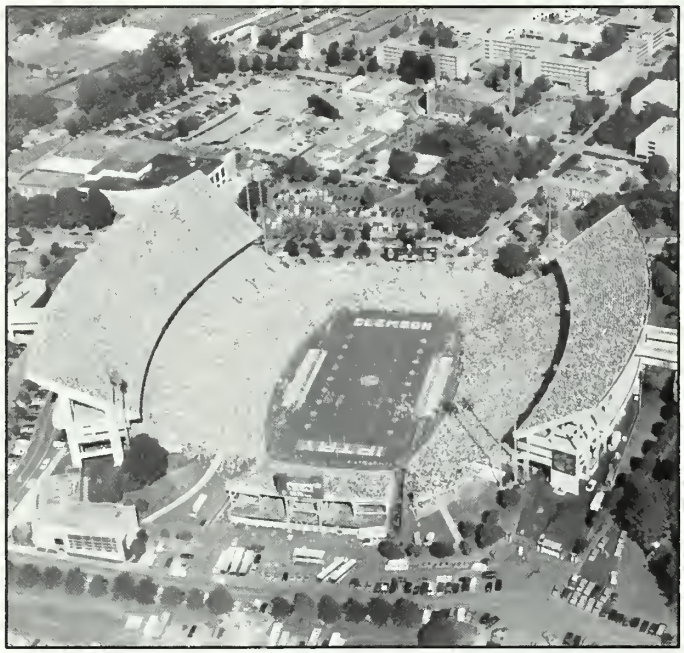
Clemson Memorial Stadium



In the first 50 years of Death Valley, the Tigers have won 74 percent of their games.

In 1991, two very special anniversaries in the Clemson football tradition were observed. Not only did the 1991 season mark the 10th anniversary of Clemson's National Championship season, but it also marked the 50th season of the place where the Tigers won five games that year: Memorial Stadium.

In the first 50 years of Memorial Stadium, Clemson has a record of 170-62-6, including a 12-0-1 ledger over the last two seasons. Clemson has a 15-game unbeaten streak at home and has a career winning ratio of 74 percent entering 1992.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers who call it home, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need'.

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing (there were many trees), but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger Football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow...and grow and grow. This year Clemson celebrates its 51st year in this outstanding facility.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete was poured.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the first day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 PM and we played at 2:00 PM." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled - the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original foundation of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The most recent upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

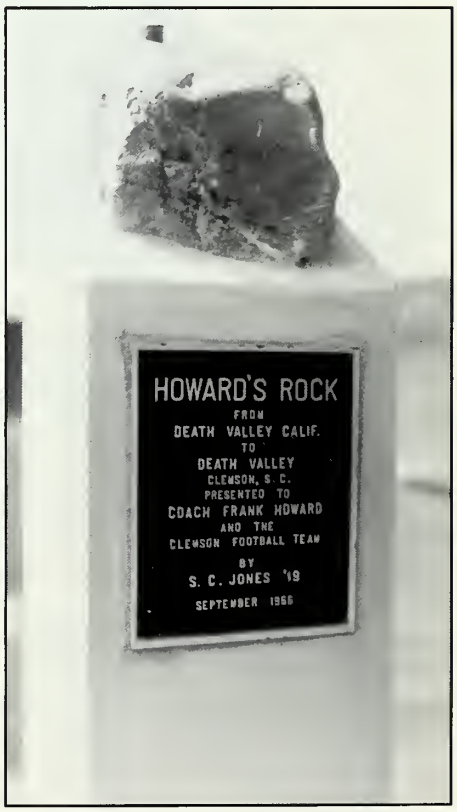
Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Athletic Director Bobby Robinson says that Memorial Stadium has many features that make it a top facility. "One thing that makes it so good is the number of sideline seats," he says. "We don't think there is a bad seat in the house.

"We also have outstanding dressing rooms, press facilities, and ample parking nearby. Another unique feature of the stadium is the number of private boxes."

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind theY.



Howard's Rock is one of the many features that make Death Valley unique.

Great Tiger Victories in Death Valley

Some of the best discoveries are made by accident.

And for Clemson fans nearly 30 years ago, it was fortunate that the great Clemson football scientist Frank Howard happened to stumble across a placekicker in spring practice of 1962.

A rising and unknown senior, Rodney Rogers, happened to be playing with the football one day before a practice session — kicking extra points and field goals.

It was one way Rogers satisfied a desire to get his hands and feet on the football, since he did not see much action as a defensive back. Howard observed that Rogers was quite talented at splitting the uprights. "Son," Howard said, "I want you to keep practicing them kicks, you might be the answer to our problems this fall." The discovery on this warm spring afternoon turned out to be one of the most rewarding in Howard's 30 years as master of the Tigers.

As the 1962 season progressed, Rodney Rogers almost became a forgotten man. In Clemson's first eight games, he kicked four field goals and several extra points. But, in the ninth game against Maryland, just a week before the South Carolina contest, Rogers kicked a 23-yard field goal with only 1:24 left in the game to give the Tigers a 17-14 Atlantic Coast Conference win.

Rogers thought this was the biggest kick of his life, until...

On November 24, against South Carolina, Rogers proved to be a hero again. The discovery Howard made proved to be one of the most important in Clemson history.

Clemson was clad in blue jerseys for the annual war with the Gamecocks. The jerseys were four- years-old, as they were bought for the Sugar Bowl game against LSU in 1959. LSU, as host team said it would wear white. Clemson's familiar orange jerseys did not offer enough contrast to keep the television people happy (only black and white televisions in those days remember) and the other Clemson jerseys were white, so Frank Howard ordered a couple of sets of dark blue jerseys for the classic.

After the Maryland game, the Clemson players started thinking about the South Carolina game and someone remembered the "Sugar Blues". A couple of the Clemson players asked Coach Howard about wearing the blue against Carolina, and soon the whole team joined in. After much deliberation, Howard said OK.

Clemson took an early 7-0 lead against the Gamecocks in the ACC classic, as Charlie Dumas scored from two yards out. South Carolina evened the score at 7-7 as Dan Reeves completed a 44-yard touchdown pass to Sammy Anderson. Reeves is now the head coach of the Denver Broncos.

After the two teams swapped field goals, South Carolina took a 17-10 lead, as Reeves scored on a six-yard rush with 1:47 to go in the first half. Clemson tied the score late in the third quarter, as Jim Parker pitched to Elmo Lam for a 14-yard touchdown.

With 8:51 left to go in the game, Clemson started a 17-play, 71-yard drive that would consume 7:09 on the clock. Rogers kicked the winning field goal from 24 yards out with 1:42 to go in the game, giving the Tigers the eventual winning margin of 20-17.

After the Gamecocks drove into Tiger territory, Clemson lineman Tracy Childers sacked Reeves on the last play of the game and the Tigers prevailed.

"I thought the Maryland game the week before was my biggest thrill , but now that was nothing compared with the South Carolina game. I'm from South Carolina and nothing is better than beating them in football—if you play for Clemson.

"Before the field goal, I kept saying over and over, I have got to make this one" said Rogers. "I have just got to make it," he said.

When the ball sailed through the uprights, Rogers erupted with joy. A reserve defensive back with little chance of contributing, had become the first player in Clemson history to provide the winning field goals inside the last two minutes in consecutive games. It might be the greatest "rags to riches story" in Clemson football history.

You Make The Call

Question: Can football staff members call recruits as much as they wish?

Answer: Bylaw 13.1.2.4-(b)
Divisions I and II institutions should note that staff members may not telephone a prospect (or the prospect's parents or legal guardians) before July 1 after the prospect's completion of the junior year in high school; thereafter, staff members may not telephone a prospect (or the prospect's parents or legal guardians) more than once per week but may accept collect calls from the prospect. During its June 6, 1991, conference, the Interpretations Committee determined that it is not permissible for a member institution's staff member to telephone a prospect more than once a week, even if additional telephone calls are not made for purposes of recruitment (e.g., responding to a telephone message left by the prospect).

Nature Is Truly A Work Of Art. It's Our Responsibility To Keep It That Way.

Nature, our most valuable resource, is a delicately balanced ecosystem entrusted to all of us. At Laidlaw Environmental Services, we take seriously our responsibility to manage, protect and restore the environment.

As the first statewide sponsor of South Carolina Waterfowl Association's Adopt-A-Habitat program, we helped provide nesting areas for many of our state's wood ducks. We helped spur a new industry by turning a clay mine in Clarendon County into a new crawfish farm; and our exciting, multimedia educational program, Earth Academy, is teaching children and adults how they can be part of the solution to recycling and hazardous waste problems.

Managing and protecting the environment is an art and a science. We will continue to search for ways to involve all of us, as partners, through education, reclamation, and conservation.

Helping Preserve Our Resources Through Conservation, Land Reclamation, and Education.

The South Carolina Waterfowl Association's award for Corporate Sponsor of the Year 1991-92 was given to recognize Laidlaw Environmental's dedication to the conservation and enhancement of South Carolina's wetlands and wetland wildlife resources.

Vickery Hall

Clemson University's commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 18 of Clemson's varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition. But Clemson's commitment to provide its student-athletes with awesome facilities doesn't apply only to areas of athletic competition, but to academic life as well.

The most convincing evidence of this commitment is Clemson University's Academic Learning Center, Vickery Hall, which opened in the spring of 1991. The $3 million facility is among the first in the nation devoted entirely to the athletic-academic advising program. The two-story, 27,000-square-foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes, and consolidates a variety of academic services for their use.

The goal of the facility is to function as a support system in providing the student-athlete the opportunity to reach his or her full potential. Vickery Hall is a commitment by the Clemson University Athletic Department to give each student-athlete a meaningful opportunity to make his or her Clemson experience a fulfilling one, not only during his or her years at Clemson, but long after the student-athlete enters the professional world.

"Vickery Hall is one of the most important facilities the Clemson University Athletic Department has ever built or will ever build. It makes a philosophical statement about the institutional commitment - giving our student-athletes the same opportunity to achieve their full potential academically that we give them athletically. We're very serious about that," said Athletic Director Bobby Robinson.

Given the time pressures of athletic participation and practice, student athletes face a difficult balancing act in trying to perform well both on the playing field and in the classroom. With respect to this, the Clemson academic advising program has provided one of the best academic tutoring and advising programs in the nation over the last several years. The completion of Vickery Hall gives the Academic Advising Program an even greater opportunity to help student-athletes reach the short-term goal of graduation and the long-term goal of success in the world.

Vickery Hall is located in the mainstream of east campus, behind Jordan Hall at the top of Bryan Mall. The facility is impressive aesthetically, but even more so for the many purposes it serves. The main entrance to the building is a 1,570-square foot reception/office area, comprised of five advisors' offices, two graduate student offices, and a conference room. Also located on the bottom floor is the office of Bill D'Andrea, the director of Clemson's student-athlete enrichment program.

The building also boasts a 175-seat auditorium to be used for classes, team meetings, review sessions, and seminars. The various speakers and lecturers who will come to work with Clemson student-athletes as part of the student-enrichment program will also use this facility. The auditorium is equipped with a projection booth and state-of-the-art audio and video equipment and is available to other campus groups when not in use for athletic advising.

The 13,000-square-foot study and tutoring area on the second floor comprises the majority of the center and is used primarily during the evening hours. A large 65-seat study room and nine 20-seat study rooms are designed as classrooms with freestanding desks. One-on-one or small group instruction takes place in 28 small tutoring rooms accommodating eight to 10 students each, two medium tutoring rooms for 20 people each and three large tutoring rooms for 40 people each.

The $3 million Academic Learning Center, Vickery Hall, is among the first in the nation devoted entirely to the athletic-academic advising program.

Computing Facilities

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Services has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to providing the student-athletes at Clemson with such equipment.

Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Services Microcomputer Labratory. The lab is open six days a week, for 16 hours a day on Monday through Thursday.

The lab staff consists of mostly graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course as well as the many management, engineering and business courses that deal with personal computers. Student-athletes may also arrange tutoring sessions outside normal lab hours any time during the school year.

Computers in the lab can reach many of the other machines on campus, including the NAS mainframe, and are in turn, connected to a world-wide internetwork, allowing lab machines to access computing resources throughout the world. This also allows access to lab resources from computers throughout the world.

The following is a list of some of the equipment available:

* 18 Macintosh personal computers
* 15 IBM personal computers
* 5 Laser Printers
* 2 Novell Netware Servers (allows users to access and share files from different computers around campus.)

Student-Athlete Career Assistance Program

The Student-Athlete Career Assistance Program is one of the most important programs provided by the staff of Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide help in securing summer employment and to aid in meeting long-term career goals.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center and the Athletic Department, Bill D'Andrea is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with The Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program's main goal is to provide the student-athlete with a job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Long Term Career Assistance Program will be coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and will focus on resume writing and interview techniques so that each student-athlete will be competitive and aggressive when dealing with companies who visit the Clemson campus.

Vickery Hall's Microcomputer Lab is open six days a week for the use of student-athletes.

Personal Growth Program

Another aspect of Clemson University's commitment to help student-athletes reach their potential in all areas of their life - academically, athletically, and socially, is the recently implemented personal growth program. This program is one of the many purposes of Vickery Hall. This particular area of student development is designed to enhance and support the lives of student-athletes during their enrollment in college as well as in their life experiences after graduation.

Bobby Douglas, the Development Coordinator, and the Vickery Hall staff realize that student-athletes have more obligations than a regular college student. The personal growth program seeks to eliminate some of the stresses of adjustment to the higher level of academics and athletics. It is the group's special task to assist the student-athlete by creating a finely tuned balance of all areas to insure success in obtaining a Clemson University degree, by supporting successful athletic practice and competition, enhancing personal growth, and helping with the transition to life after college.

A series of personal growth programs will be offered to student-athletes throughout each semester. Some programs may accomplish their objectives in one session, while others may be ongoing throughout the academic year. Some of the personal growth programs are as follows:

Alcohol and Drug Issues:
The intent of this program is to provide the student-athlete with an overview of the disease of addictions and chemical dependence. Emphasis will be placed on providing basic awareness of how substance abuse effects individuals, families and athletic teams.

Current Topics of Concern:
The idea behind this segment of the Personal Growth Plan is to address issues that effect students such as human sexuality, birth control, date rape, etc.

Career Preparation:
The Career Preparation Plan is to encourage all student-athletes to think about life after sports and after graduation. Many sources of information will be available, from career testing to self-paced computer programs, and even with resume preparation and interview skills.

Nutrition and Eating Disorders:
Eating habits and proper diet are very important in maintaining a sound body and mind. The focus of this program revolves around presenting information so that student-athletes can analyze their own eating habits and carefully choose a balanced diet with enough calories to maintain good health.

Personal Finance:
Student-athletes on athletic scholarships are not allowed to have jobs during the academic year. Therefore, it is important to budget personal finances so they do not run out before the semester. This program not only discusses budgeting but also the responsible use of credit.

Stress Management:
All student-athletes face additional concerns during their college days than normal students. Many times these add stress to the everyday lives of student-athletes. The object of this program is to teach the student-athlete ways of identifying and handling personal stress so it does not interfere with the maintenance of good mental and physical health.

Study Skills/Time Management: These two topics are combined because a major part of developing good study skills involves having the time to delegate to studying. Objectives of this program are to expose student-athletes to different types of study techniques that are proven effective.

Motivation/Self Esteem:
The objective of this program is to improve the level of self esteem for student-athletes to positively impact their productivity in all areas of campus life.

Clemson Head Coach Chuck Kriese looks at adversity in a positive way.

Instead of dwelling on the negative situation and attitudes adversity can bring, he looks at how adversity can be transformed into a positive revelation for his team.

"Last year was one of the most gratifying years I have ever coached," said Head Coach Chuck Kriese, who is only 12 wins shy of 400 career victories. "I have always believed in the saying 'adversity introduces a man to himself, and adversity introduces a team to itself." We had four to five freshmen in our starting lineup last season. We had a lot of adversity in losing key players from the year before. A by-product of these troubles was our team becoming mentally tough and fundamentally better. This in turn led us to making the NCAA tournament and to finish 20th in the nation last season. I have been proud of our players the last two to three year for maintaining a tough hard fighting excellence in our program."

Clemson advanced to the NCAA tournament as a team for the 12th time in history of the team championships. The Tigers are tied for seventh for most appearances in the NCAA tournament. Kriese has also coached the Tigers to six final eight appearances over the years. Kriese is the dean of the ACC's head coaches as he will enter his 18th season this spring.

"We had six 5-4 wins and when it came to clutch time we were clutch. We got the job done. We made the NCAA tournament pulling out some critical matches towards the end of the season. Advancing in the NCAA tournament last season was so important to this year's team. Our young people now have NCAA experience and this is worth 6-8 months of practice. I have been proud of maintaining excellence in our program and I am disappointed in not winning the ACC championship the last two years. Our primary goal is to reclaim the top position in the league."

George Lampert

The Tigers return five starters and eight letterwinners from last season. The 1992 team finished the season with a 15-11 record overall and a 5-3 mark in the ACC. Among the top returnees are George Lampert, Frank Salazar, Bryan Twente, Bas Wild, and Mike Williams.

Lampert went to the NCAA individual doubles championships last season as a junior and he finished the year with a 18-17 record overall in singles and he led the team in doubles wins with a 28-15 mark. Lampert played number two singles and number one doubles for the Tigers last season.

Salazar recovered from a serious shoulder injury and played number-four singles for the Tigers last season. He finished 1992 with a 23-15 record overall in singles, including a 7-3 mark in the ACC. Salazar also played number two doubles for the Tigers.

Williams played number-three singles for the Tigers in 1992 and number-two doubles. The junior from Mamaroneck, NY should see playing time again in the middle of the lineup. Wild played number-six singles for the Tigers last season and posted a 10-5 mark in singles play and a 6-6 record in doubles. Wild also had a great summer and could play towards the top of the lineup this season.

Women's Tennis

What seems like a major obstacle to some is not a problem to others.

Head Women's Tennis Coach Andy Johnston faces the unenviable task of replacing four experienced players from last year's team. To some coaches this would be a major undertaking, but this season, Johnston will solve the task of filling out the scorecard with a blend of the old and the new—experienced veterans and freshmen.

The returnees include one senior, one junior and three sophomores. The new segment will consist of four newcomers who come to Clemson with a resume full of competitive experience through the junior ranks.

"Coming into the fall practice, I was not sure how the team would blend as a cohesive unit," said Head Coach Andy Johnston who will be entering his 11th season at Clemson. "After spending time with the team, I am very anxious for the season to start. It is going to be an exciting season."

Johnston is the second winningest coach in ACC history with 184 wins. He has also won more ACC titles than any other ACC coach.

"We are definitely going to be a young team on paper with four newcomers, three sophomores, one junior, and one senior. However, I feel our team is not that young since our newcomers have so much experience through the junior ranks and this has shown during the fall practices.

"We are going to be tough from top to bottom. We do not have any superstars, but we have solid players from positions one to six. Our number six player could probably beat our number one player—we are that balanced. This is the most balanced team we have ever had, and this is also our hardest working team we have had at Clemson.

"We have depth and consistency in our lineup.

Amy Young

We may not have the superstar, but we do have great players. Our doubles teams are going to be significantly better than last season. We are extremely fit and this is the quickest and fastest team that I have ever coached. We are going to have three excellent doubles teams. We may not have a marque name in our lineup, but we are going to surprise some people."

The "old" segment of the roster includes senior and two-time ACC Champion Amy Young. Young played number three singles last season for the Lady Tigers and compiled a 13-9 record in singles and a 7-3 mark in doubles competition. Young has a career record of 63-37 in singles play. The native of Boca Raton, FL needs only 17 victories to enter Clemson's top 10 list for most singles victories in a career.

Junior Tonja McClinton saw limited action last season but could challenge for a starting position this spring. Clemson's group of young players include sophomores Shannon King, Karolina Jutkiewicz, and Janice Durden. These three sophomores started for the Lady Tigers as freshmen last season and played in the lower half of the singles lineup.

King won 15 singles matches last season, the fourth most for the Lady Tigers in 1992. She also posted an impressive 6-2 slate against ACC competition. Durden won 16 singles matches, the most for any returning player on the 1993 squad. She saw most of her action at number four singles. Karolina Jutkiewicz had a 12-11 record in singles play. Jutkiewicz was a starter at number two doubles for the Lady Tigers.

Clemson brought in three freshmen, Emma Peetz, Jan Barrett, and Tatum Helmer to the program. Junior college transfer, Boba Tzvetkova is the fourth newcomer as she comes from Midland Junior College in Midland, TX after a successful career. Tzvetkova won the National Junior College Championship at number three singles and number three doubles in 1992. She also won the national championship at number two doubles and number five singles in 1991.

Butch Fewster

By Brett Sowell

The role of an underdog is something many people and teams are tagged with for various reasons. Some enjoy the label and some don't, but the reward of succeeding as an underdog is extra special. To achieve something that people thought you couldn't makes an achievement that much more rewarding. Clemson senior, Butch Fewster has experienced both the label of an underdog and the achievement of one.

Fewster is a reserve defensive back and he is also on the Tiger's special teams unit. Butch came to Clemson in 1989 as a walk-on after playing one year of football at Marion Military Institute Junior College. He had looked into the possibility of attending different small schools after Marion, but choose to try his skills at Clemson.

"My parents supported my decision to come to Clemson, but they also told me that I may never see another football field again because Clemson recruits the best athletes. But I told them I thought I could play," recalls Fewster. That statement weighed heavily on Butch's mind since he had been playing football since he was in the third grade. With that in mind he came to Clemson anyway and spent the 1989 season as a red-shirt. During the spring game that year Fewster recorded five tackles as a roverback for the White team. The five tackles led the White team that day.

In 1990 Fewster participated in four games as a member of the Tiger special teams. He had gained a lot of experience before that season working during practice and spring drills in the three years leading up to the 1990 campaign. Before the 1991 season, Fewster's hard work and patience paid off as he was awarded a football scholarship.

"I wasn't recruited out of high school except by a small college, and to say that I played and earned a scholarship at a big school like Clemson has meant a lot to me," Fewster adds.

The hard work that gave Butch Fewster that scholarship has been with him a long time. In high school, Butch, played both linebacker and running back, and earned Northwestern High School's Hardest Worker Award. "I learned my work ethic from my dad because he went to a military school and he has given us things that he didn't have. Every weekend he would go to his office and work, and even on vacation he would take his work with him. He taught me by example," Fewster says.

The excitement of earning that scholarship unfortunately only lasted temporarily. Fewster's father, who had instilled in Butch the importance of hard work, passed away suddenly due to a complication during surgery to remove some cancer in early August of 1991. The death was totally unexpected.

With the stress of his father's death and other factors, Butch left the team during pre-fall practice with the intention of not returning. It only took one day before Fewster's mother inspired him to return to the team. The return paid off for Fewster in Clemson's second game against Appalachian State. It was in that game that Fewster became one of only two Tigers to block a field goal during the 1991 season.

"My father's death was pretty hard at first, I tried not to show much emotion, but with the support of my mother and my girlfriend, I was able to make it through."

Fewster played in 11 games altogether in 1991. In the Tiger's ACC title-clinching win over Maryland, Fewster had a career high three tackles, all on special teams.

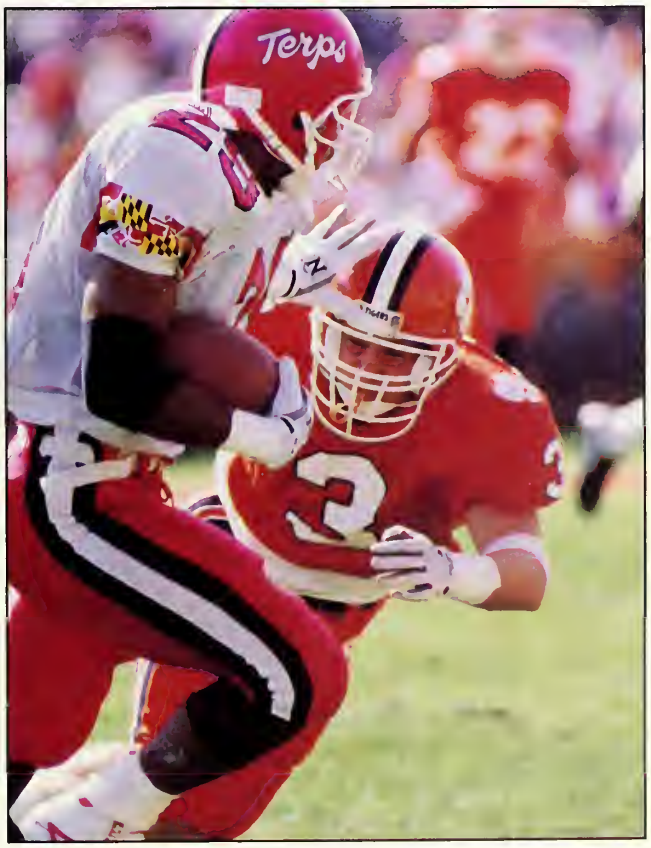
With the death of his father, Fewster saw himself filling a new role within his family. Being the oldest of three children, Butch felt the added responsibility after his father passed away. "After my dad died I felt I had more responsibility. I see myself watching over my little brother and sister, and my mom more now. I find myself asking my brother questions that my father would ask me. I ask my brother how he is doing in school now. I feel like I have taken over different responsibilities in a way," Fewster says.

In the 1992 season Fewster has seen limited action, but he understands the reasons surrounding his limited role. "I haven't played that much this season. I have played in just three games, but the guys playing in front of me, Brian Dawkins and Terrence Dixon, are great athletes. The future of the Clemson secondary is in good hands with those guys."

After Fewster graduates from Clemson he is thinking of going to graduate school and working as a graduate assistant football coach. He would also like the opportunity to teach and coach at the high school level. In fact Fewster hopes that he will have a chance to coach at his high school alma mater. Fewster's brother is a freshman quarterback at the school.

"I'd like to go back and coach at Northwestern High School for a couple of years to gain some experience, and to coach my younger brother. I have never had the opportunity to watch him play in a football game," Fewster says.

If and when Fewster obtains a head coaching job, he will probably face the label of underdog many times. But Butch Fewster has become accustomed to the role and now somewhat enjoys it. "I feel I've proven people wrong a lot throughout my life, I've always felt like people have underestimated me. I like the role of the underdog because I have been there so much."



Fewster has been a top special teams player and reserve defensive back for three seasons.

Why some teams have a stronger bench than others.

Tigers in the Pros

By Tim Bourret

Clemson is known for its traditions. Recently, Sports Illustrated cited Clemson's entrance to Death Valley as the top stadium tradition in college football. Running down the hill might be the most celebrated entrance in all of sport. And, there is Howard's Rock and the mystical powers it brings Clemson gridders.

Recently, Clemson's intangible powers have transcended the United States, amateur athletics and football. That unique power, luck, superstition, whatever you want to call it, has now blessed the Toronto Blue Jays of Major League Baseball.

In the eyes of Blue Jays fans in general, and former Clemson baseball star Jimmy Key in particular, Howard's Rock has company.

It seems a Clemson T-shirt has had an impact on the Blue Jays' World Series championship of 1992. Key, who starred for Bill Wilhelm's teams between 1980-82, was struggling with an 8-13 record entering September and the important pennant stretch drive. Prior to his first start of the month, he decided to wear a Clemson T-shirt under his baseball uniform.

"I was in a slump and needed some kind of a change," remembers Key. "My wife had bought me this Clemson T-shirt last Christmas (a generic shirt with a Tiger head on it), so I took it to the game. Guys on the team are always talking about college football and I am still a Clemson football fan in addition to following the baseball team. I was wearing it during batting practice during the year, but never during a game."

That September night Key wore it under his uniform and reversed his fortunes by gaining victory. The next start he wore the T-shirt again, and was credited with another triumph. In five starts in September with the T-shirt under his uniform, Key was a perfect 5-0 with an ERA under 2.0. His late season accomplishments were viewed as a major reason the Blue Jays captured their fourth American League East title since Key has been with the club.

When Key told his teammates and some members of the media of his lucky Tiger T-shirt, the incident received much national attention, including a mention on ESPN and CBS. It reached a height in the last week of the regular season when Key decided to test the shirt's ability to spread fortune to his teammates.

"We were in New York and Jack Morris was going for his 20th win. He had missed out getting his 20th win in each of his last few starts. We were talking before the game and I told him how my fortunes had changed when I wore the Clemson T-shirt. So, he wore it against the Yankees that night and won his 20th game."

After Bill Wilhelm heard of the fortune bestowed upon Key and Morris, he sent 18 shirts to Key to help distributed the luck. One of the players who received a shirt was Candy Maldinado. All he did was hit the key three-run homer in the Blue Jays sixth-game American League Pennant clincher against the Oakland A's.

"I am not normally a superstitious person, but a lot of guys are," said Key. "With the success I had in that Clemson shirt in September I might become a little more superstitious." The nature of the shirt, however, does not allow Key to wear it during cold weather. He cut the sleeves out of it in the summer so it resembles a sweather vest.

This five-game winning streak in September was important for Key and the Blue Jays, but it is just another in a long line of accomplishments for the native of Alabama.

At Clemson, Key was a starter on Clemson's 1980 ACC Championship and College World Series team. He started 15 games, led the ACC in innings pitched with 111 1/3 and won eight games. But, in 1981, Key slumped.

"I had good years as a freshman and a junior at Clemson, but my sophomore year was a disappointment. I went to Alaska after that sophomore year and played well. I faced a lot of the West Coast guys and got my confidence back. Then, in 1982, I returned to the form of my freshman year. I had something to prove at Clemson in 1982."

He more than returned to that form. Key became the first and still only Clemson player to earn All-ACC honors at two different positions, pitcher and DH. He led the team in victories (9), ERA (2.79), innings pitched (116) and strikeouts. At the bat, he set a single season record for doubles and hit well over .300. It was obvious that Key was ready for professional baseball, and when he was chosen in the third round by the Toronto Blue Jays (56th pick overall) he decided to turn pro.

"The experience I gained in Alaska, and then with the success I had at Clemson that spring, I thought I had done just about all I could accomplish in college," said Key. "I don't have any regrets. It was important that I took it one year at a time at Clemson. I never got ahead of myself. The Clemson program helped me get ready for the next level. It was a great experience."

Key was correct in his belief that he was ready for the next level. Just three years after leaving Clemson, he was pitching in the Major League All-Star Game. In 1985, his first full season with Toronto as a starter, he posted a 14-6 record and a 3.00 ERA. He ranked in the top five in the American League in winning percentage and ERA.

In 1987 he improved to a 17-8 record, was second in the voting for the American League Cy Young Award, was named American League Pitcher-of-the-Year by the Sporting News, posted a league best 2.76 ERA and allowed three runs or less in 30 of 36 starts.

He has been Mr. Consistency for the Blue Jays, winning in double figures in eight straight years (including the 13 wins this year) and he is the club's career leader in ERA.

"I have enjoyed playing in Toronto. It is a great city. You stay away from the real heat in the summer, it never gets over 80 degrees, and there are so many activities from a cultural standpoint going on. It is a real clean city also.

"The Skydome is like no other stadium in the world. I don't think you will see any more stadiums like it because it would be very expensive to build today. We drew over 4.2 million fans this year and we sellout every game. "

Despite his success, Key obviously still follows Clemson and its athletic teams. "I think Clemson's baseball program has improved since I left. The facilities are so much better and that has helped Coach (Bill) Wilhelm's teams recruit and move to another level. It is gratifying to see them ranked among the top teams in the nation."

It is a long way from Tiger Field to the Skydome, but it is nice to see Jimmy Key remembers his roots and still takes a little bit of Clemson with him where ever he goes.

Former Tiger Jimmy Key helped the Blue Jays to the World Series championship with two wins over the Atlanta Braves, including the clincher in Game 6.

The Last Word

By Bob Bradley

(NOTE: Here are a few more stories as told to Clemson Sports Information Director Emeritas Bob Bradley, that former Tiger football players recalled during their careers at Clemson).

This one is from Otis Kempson of Asheville, N.C. an end on the 1950-51-52 teams.

A funny thing happened in the 1950 football game Clemson played at the University of Missouri.

Those Midwest Tigers had a high pre-season rating, primarily because of two very good players, a big fullback named (Bill) Houston and a huge defensive guard named (John) Kadlec. Unfortunately for Missouri, Kadlec was rendered ineffective when he broke his leg early in the game as Clemson pounded up the middle near the Missouri goal line.

Mr. Houston was another story. He weighed 225 pounds, a big back in 1950. He was powerful and swift. His speciality was line crunching runs up the middle and off tackle. In 1949 he had a good year and was touted for All-America honors in 1950.

Alas, because of a skinny-legged, broad shouldered Clemson linebacker from Macedonia High School in Berkeley County, SC named Stephen Friendly Wyndham, Houston was a battered and beaten man late that Saturday afternoon.

Wyndham, called Friendly by some in Berkeley County, was decidedly unfriendly to foes on the football field. Known at Clemson as Wyndie Wyndham, he was also known more affectionately as Dumb Dumb, a name bestowed on him by Coach (Frank) Howard, which is another story, and it has nothing to do with intelligence. Wyndie was quite a good student.

Wyndie literally poured his big shoulders into Mr. Houston all game long with great ferocity. Other Missouri backs got similar treatment, but he seemed to reserve his best punch for Houston. Everytime Houston poked his head into the Clemson line, Wyndie was there to greet him with a powerful wallop that could be heard all over the stadium.

On every play that Wyndie gave him a serious pop, Houston took a little longer to get up off the ground. This went on for most of the four quarters. Finally, after Houston was the recipient of yet another fierce blistering by Wyndie, he slowly got up and walked over to the referee, pointed his finger at Wyndie and said: "You better put that animal in a cage before he kills somebody."

This was certainly an apt tribute to one of the best linebackers ever to put on an orange Clemson jersey. Oh yes, Clemson won the game, 34-0 and set the tone for an unbeaten season.

Wyndie was renowned for hitting a Boston College runner so hard in a 1950 game in Boston on a kickoff return that one of the poor back's shoes flew off and landed about 20 yards away from the collision. I can still see that shoe flying through the chilled Boston air until this day. They moved the player from the field on a stretcher.

His shoe, too!

In the Gator Bowl of January 1, 1949, it was a two stretcher day for Wyndie. The opponent was also Missouri in this game. This star quarterback was a fine player named Buzz Entsminger. He tried a quarterback rollout near midfield. As he neared the sideline convoyed by a huge Missouri guard, Wyndie, running like the wind, blasted head-on into the guard, knocking him violently into Entsminger. The sound of that collision was eerie. A curious quiet descended upon the stadium. All three men lay on the ground in a heap.

Wyndie got up, shaking his head to clear the cobwebs and hit both sides of his shoulder pads to straighten them up. The guard and Entsminger? Knocked out cold as a cucumber. As they say in football, the young men had had their bells rung—and by a master bell ringer!!

Bring out the stretchers!

Many more stories could be told about Wyndie. About the opponents he knocked out with pure, swift and fair tackles. Worse yet was the punishment meted out in practice to his own teammates. But it was always a clean hit by a player who reveled in the game.

After graduation you could always find Wyndie and his family at Clemson home games. He always came early so he could have a tennis match with Don Wade, Fred Cone and some of his other former teammates. He was a loyal and faithful supporter of Clemson and its teams.

He worked with Sled (State Law Enforcement Division), and in his early days, handled the blood hounds while they were chasing escaped prisoners. Wyndham's reputation also became known among the escapees. One was heard to say once after being re-captured: "It wasn't the dogs I was afraid of, but that Mr. Wyndham."

Unfortunately, Wyndie passed away in 1983. His teammates, out of love and respect for a fine man and great football player, created an academic scholarship at Clemson in his memory. As long as Clemson exists, so will the memory and the legend of Stephen Friendly Wyndham.

Jim Coleman of Clinton, SC, a halfback in 1954-55-56, sends us another story. Our 1956 football team won Clemson's first Atlantic Coast Conference championship and played Colorado in the Orange Bowl. We did it the hard way—with very little passing. We beat South Carolina that year without throwing a pass.

Over the years since then, we kid our quarterback, Charlie Bussey, about his arm, to wit: strong legs run so weak arms don't throw. He threw perfect end-over-end passes. Tackles caught as many passes as ends.

The facts were we could have passed, but didn't by design. When you have an All-America back like Joel Wells, who averaged five yards a carry, you go to him. That keeps the ball away from the other team, also. Bussey was a leader and he ran the offense well.

But, as Coach Howard used to way, "When you throw a pass, three things can happen and two of them are bad." The strategy worked in 1956, but we still enjoy kidding Bussey.

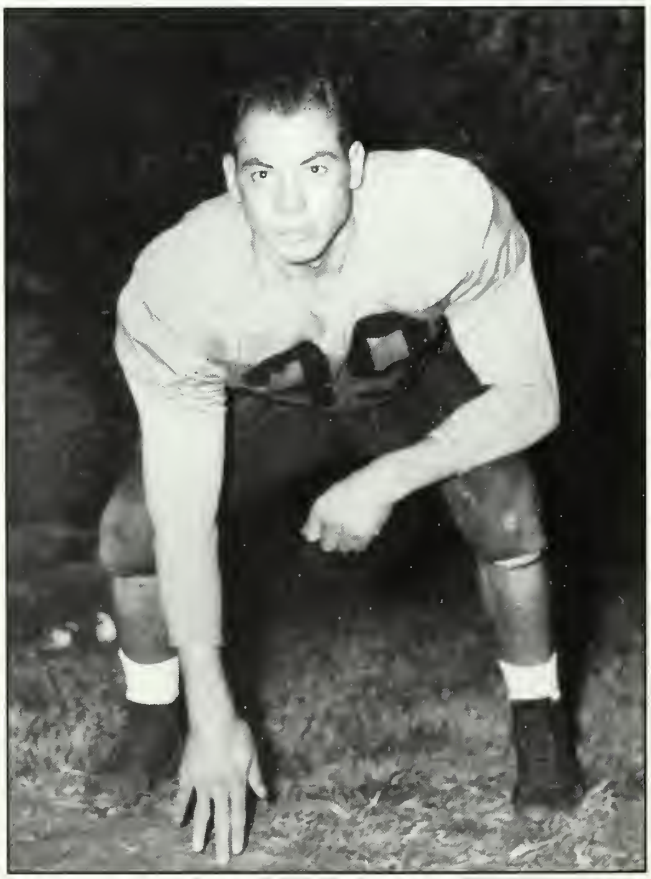
And another about Frank Howard comes from Red Whitten of Danville, VA, a fullback on the 1952-53-54 teams.

During pass protection practice one afternoon, there was a big pile up and Buck Priester, a fine running back in that era, started screaming in a way that made the hair stand up on the back of your neck. Everytime someone unpiled, the screaming would intensify.

Coach Howard became concerned. As he compassionately ran over to the pile up, he was yelling, "What's the matter son, what's the matter?" Buck managed, "I broke my leg coach, my leg is broken." Coach relaxed and said, "Well, son, don't make so much noise. It'll grow back."



Even 40 years later, Wyndie Wyndham is regarded as the most unfriendly linebacker in Clemson history.
